Workstream 1: Strategic planning
2	1:05 - 1:25 pm: Kendyl Brockman ( DHHS ); Mia Nafziger	Kendyl Brockman presented on the Health Workforce Advisory Council (HWAC). The HWAC is developing a behavioral health strategic plan to fulfill Legislative Auditor General recommendations (Report #2025-05) and Commission Objective 4. The top priorities identified via stakeholder survey: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Recruiting qualified professionals (addressing geographic shortages and supervision limits).</li> <li>● Retaining experienced staff (combating burnout and limited growth).</li> <li>● Addressing low compensation and wage competition (high debt vs. community-based pay).</li> </ul> The proposed solutions for the above focus areas include expanding supervision capacity, rural education pathways, reducing administrative burdens, and improving Medicaid engagement, among other options.

		Discussion from Commission: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• AI integration: inquiries were made regarding AI as a tool for documentation vs. a therapeutic replacement. HWAC will coordinate with the new Office for AI Policy.</li> <li>• Chair Isom asked if there are any benefits for universities creating a minor in behavioral health, and Kendyl stated she would follow up with more information.</li> <li>• Behavioral health technicians and coaches: Adam Cohen and Tracy Gruber noted that commercial insurance often refuses to reimburse for lower-level degreed professionals (Behavioral Health Tech/Coach), unlike Medicaid. The Commission will explore following up with the Department of Insurance regarding this gap.</li> </ul>

Chair Isom requested that the administrative rules clearly define the appointment process to the Commission (application through Commission staff, Executive Committee review, then Commission appointment) to ensure continuity beyond current members. Feedback on the final draft is due by the April meeting to meet the May filing deadline for a July 1, 2026, effective date.
